

TRINITY FINDS FOUR FAKE CERTIFICATES

College Heads Fear Forgers
Do Extensive Business.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 6.—Rev. R. B. Ogilby, president of Trinity College, has unearthed what seems to be a scheme to supply preparatory school students with fraudulent certificates for admission to college.

Four students who tried to enter Trinity this fall have been thwarted in their efforts to use alleged counterfeit certificates. President Ogilby said to-day, College authorities who have handled the admission of students are of the opinion that the scheme may have ramifications reaching other institutions.

The four students through whom the fraud was discovered sent to the registrar of Trinity apparently valid certificates from a reputable preparatory school. After suspicion had been aroused in the registrar's office it was discovered that what purported to be the signature of the head master of the school

Thieves Take Finest of Judge Gary's Hens

THIEVES entered the henry of Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel Corporation, at Jericho, L. I., Friday night and took from his pens 150 of his finest Leghorn fowls.

No notice was made, and yesterday morning W. Goldsmith, superintendent, notified Sheriff Smith of the robbery. Deputies from the Sheriff's office are making an investigation which they think will result in the capture of the thieves, for which Mr. Gary has offered a reward of $100.

had been affixed by another person, giving credit for work to which the students were not entitled. Inquiries showed that in at least one case the student had not attended the school from which he presented a certificate.

All four certificates presented at Trinity are said to be the work of one person. Some information points to the theory that this is an older man, who makes a business of supplying such certificates to students insufficiently prepared to enter college. The preparatory school of course is not in any way to blame.

ELECTRICITY SHOWS WONDERS IT CAN DO

Grand Central Palace Exhibit
Reviews Forty Years of Progress.

Forty years' effort in searching out new tasks for electricity in the home, the office, the factory, in all departments of civilized life, were summed up in the fifteenth annual Electrical and Industrial Show, which opened at the Grand Central Palace yesterday to 10,000 visitors. Three exhibition floors and 100 booths are devoted to showing the place of electrical appliances in modern life.

New electrical devices for lightening the burdens of housekeeping are demonstrated by means of model apartments. A complete laundry, an immaculate kitchen, a comfortable living room and a pantry demonstrate to housewives the place of electricity in the home. The industrial exhibits show how electricity is used in printing, in candy cooking, soap wrapping, elevator operation, envelope making, soda bottling, toolmaking, water sterilization and in the preparation of various dairy products. The smallest licensed cigar factory in the world turns out a cigar for smokers in seven and one-half seconds from an automatic electrical contrivance, selecting the filler, laying the binder and applying the wrapper in one continuous operation.

The results of the world series game were broadcast on the floor of the exposition by radio. A whole section of the main floor is devoted to radio. Twenty-two manufacturers and dealers have exhibits of the most improved wireless equipment. A section of telephone switchboard is operated to show telephone users just what goes on behind the scenes in a telephone office. A cross section of a typical street in Manhattan reveals the maze of wires and conduits beneath the feet of hurrying pedestrians.

The various types of electric trucks, passenger cars and industrial vehicles will be demonstrated in a parade on Tuesday, in which more than 150 trucks will be in line. The show will be open from 11 A. M. to 10:30 P. M., until October 14, except to-day.
